Biography

Adam Bouvier is an associate who concentrates his practice on civil litigation, including commercial, personal injury and employment law matters.

Prior to joining Clausen Miller, Adam worked as an associate attorney at two regional law firms, where he focused on complex personal injury and commercial litigation, as well as corporate and mergers & acquisitions (M&A) matters. Before pursuing his legal career, Adam served in the United States Army for nearly 12 years as a field artillery and military intelligence officer.

Adam earned his J.D. from Fordham University School of Law, where he served as the senior notes and articles editor for Fordham's Environmental Law Review Journal and as a student attorney for the In-House Securities Clinic. During law school, Adam gained experience through several legal internships and an externship with the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). He graduated with a B.S. from the University of Scranton.
