Biography

Thomas D. Jacobson ("Tommy") is a shareholder with Clausen Miller P.C., and his practice areas include first-party property, liability insurance coverage and subrogation.

Tommy has represented insurance companies at both the trial and appellate levels in coverage and bad faith litigation involving all types of insurance policies, including first-party property, commercial general liability and builders risk. Tommy also provides pre-litigation counseling and advice to insurers on complex coverage matters. Rounding out his litigation background, Tommy has prosecuted numerous subrogation matters ranging from simple fires to complex transformer losses. He has directly handled several high profile seven figure recoveries for the firm's clients.

Tommy received his Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science and English from Hartwick College. He graduated from Valparaiso University School of Law with a Juris Doctor degree. While in law school, he was elected to the Moot Court Honor Society where he participated in several interscholastic Moot Court competitions across the nation.
