Biography

Sean is an associate attorney of the firm's Tampa Bay office, handling a variety of insurance law issues, disputes, and civil litigation. Sean has prior litigation experience representing plaintiffs and defendants in various areas of law, including class actions, real property, mortgage foreclosures, timeshares, contracts, consumer protection, including debt collection violations. Sean is passionate about protecting both the reputational and financial interests of his clients.

Sean received a Business Administration degree from Warner University. While at Warner University, Sean was a member of the Men's Volleyball team, where he helped the Royals make three consecutive trips to the NAIA National Championship Tournament. Sean obtained his law degree from Stetson University's College of Law. Being the son of two United States Air Force veterans, while attending Stetson, Sean volunteered at Stetson University College of Law's Veteran Law Institute.
