Biography

Tony Pagán, Jr. focuses his practice on counseling, defending, and litigating matters for international and national insurance carriers in state and federal courts. He assists clients in the investigation of claims, provides coverage opinions, and litigates first and third party insurance claim lawsuits.

After graduation from law school, Mr. Pagán interned with the Federal Public Defenders Office before joining a Florida civil litigation firm. As an associate, Mr. Pagán represented consumers, businesses, professionals, and artists in matters ranging from copyright infringement to unlawful evictions. Mr. Pagán has extensive experience in pre-suit investigations, crisis management, consumer rights, and legal research. Throughout his career, he has registered and defended multiple IP registrations, litigated a number of civil suits from inception through verdict, and avoided discharge of civil judgments through bankruptcy adversary proceedings. Since 2019, Mr. Pagán has worked as an insurance defense attorney in Florida, representing national and local insurance carriers, including assisting them with good faith claim investigations, and litigating first and third party insurance lawsuits.

While in law school, Mr. Pagán was elected and served as President of the Hispanic-American Law Student Association (HALSA) after serving as Treasurer the year before. During his terms, Mr. Pagán organized numerous community-outreach programs and service events.
