Biography

Erick is an associate attorney with Clausen Miller who has been practicing law in Florida since 2020, with a focus on first-party property matters. Erick is also experienced in the areas of third-party liability, including premises liability, defamation, contractual disputes, personal injury, motor vehicle accidents, and HOA/condo law.

Erick has substantial experience representing some of Florida's largest homeowner's property insurance companies and has defended condominium and homeowners' associations in a wide variety of contexts from inception to resolution. Erick has also represented contractors in high-exposure worker's compensation cases with favorable outcomes, and has secured the dismissal of multiple fraudulent injury and insurance claims.

Before moving to Florida, Erick lived in the Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico. During his time in Florida, Erick worked in a variety of roles, including as a Human Trafficking Awareness Research Fellow, a columnist for a magazine, a law clerk for a state judge in the homicide and civil divisions, and legal support at small and mid-size firms prior to attending law school. Erick is licensed to practice in Florida State and Federal courts.

During his spare time, Erick enjoys running, cycling, tinkering with computers, traveling, and spending time with his family.
