Biography

David A. Peskanov is a partner at Clausen Miller who concentrates his practice in general liability, products liability, premises liability, professional liability, construction, employment discrimination, commercial litigation and insurance coverage litigation. He is experienced in handling a large caseload defending clients in cases related to construction liability, premises liability, subrogation, property damage, alleged police brutality and automobile accidents. He is also skilled at handling all aspects of litigation from beginning to end, including trials, depositions, settlement negotiations, appeals and mediation.

Prior to joining Clausen Miller, David served as an associate at a New York-based law firm where he defended clients in disputes involving general liability, premises liability, construction and insurance coverage litigation. He also worked at a national law firm defending clients in cases related to labor law, premises liability and automobile accidents.

David received his J.D. from the Maurice A. Dean School of Law at Hofstra University in 2017. While in law school, he served as a legal intern from a healthcare defense law firm and as a student intern for the law school's Federal Tax Clinic Practicum. Prior to earning his J.D., he obtained his B.A. in History, cum laude, from the State University of New York at Geneseo in 2013.
